

TO EXAMINE THOSE WHO APPLIED FOR LIQUOR STORE JOBS

Mental Tests To Be Given In Doylestown High School Tomorrow

NO IDEA AS TO NUMBER

Examination To Be Conducted Strictly On The Number Plan

A number of Bucks County residents will assemble in the high school building, Doylestown, Saturday, there to take the examination for the new positions under the State Liquor Control Board. Similar examinations will be held in 36 cities and towns.

Said to be the largest examination program of its kind ever conducted in the United States except for the army intelligence tests of 1917-18, the examinations will mean survival of the fittest for the many thousands of men and women expected to qualify to take them. Individuals making the highest ratings will receive first offers of positions for which they have been examined.

Positions to be filled range from liquor store manager to watchman-janitor, eight different types of positions for the liquor stores. The headquarters staff of the Liquor Control Board at Harrisburg will have twenty-two types of positions to fill through competitive examination, ranging from comptroller and supervisors down to messengers and janitors. Most applications have been entered for liquor store jobs available only to residents of the county in which the store is located. Harrisburg posts may be filled through civil service ratings by candidates from any county.

At least three different high school buildings will be used in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in Saturday's examinations for candidates from Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, respectively.

The Department of Public Instruction, in arranging to conduct the competitive examinations will deal entirely with unnamed examinees. Candidates from beginning to end of the examination and the grading process will be known only by number. This is to prevent any chance of favoritism entering the selection of the approximately 2500 liquor board employees.

If the candidate forgets and writes his name on his examination paper, as he did back in school days that paper will be rejected and he gets zero for a score.

Ice Skating and Sledding In Streets Is Big Hazard

Ice skating and sledding on the streets of Bristol were additions to the worries of the motorists today who had all they could do to keep their machines moving over the ice-coated streets.

Sleet and ice covered sidewalks and highways since early morning and travel was greatly impeded.

The Borough again sent out clinker gangs, covering foot-crossings on the principal traveled highways and also covering steeply graded highways, so that the going for vehicles as well as pedestrians was somewhat aided.

Highway condition report for the state received by teletype at the local police station shows that the second sleet storm visit to Pennsylvania took the efforts of 2,732 highway maintenance men with 774 clinker trucks to cover curbs and grades with material.

Northwestern counties were passed yesterday with a sleet storm, those sections receiving snow falls last evening and this morning. Reports this morning revealed snow flurries and threats of bad weather, with the temperature staying around the freezing mark or lower. The main difficulty was sleet, or misty rain freezing on the roadways and windshields of automobiles.

COOPER-SHAW TO WED TODAY

New York City, Dec. 15—Gary Cooper, romantic cinema heart throbber, and Veronica Balfe, New York society girl, known on the screen as Sandra Shaw, will be married quietly this afternoon in the actor's hotel apartment. Confirmation that the wedding would take place came today from Cooper and the mother of his bride-to-be.

JOBS GO A-BEGGING

Haverford, Dec. 15—Believe it or not, jobs, 997 of them, went begging today in Haverford Township, the residence of many of Philadelphia's wealthiest families. Since there were only 329 unemployed men in the township to fill the 1326 jobs created by a civil works administration allotment, of $836,990, Haverford Township officials today announced vacancies will be filled by all comers.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 15—Two negroes, March Jefferson, 22, and Samuel Gordon, 21, paid with their lives on the gallows today for the murder of Morris Cross, 61 year old grocer, during a hold-up.

Junior Travel Club Marks Its Third Anniversary

The Junior Travel Club celebrated its third anniversary at the club home, last evening. Members of the senior club were invited. There were in all about 30 present.

A short business meeting was held. Miss Anna Hawkes, past president of the Junior Club, read an essay on historical Bristol. Some of the parts were enacted by the Junior members, including historical and modern songs. The program: Song, Miss Mary Wurster, accompanied by Miss Hilda MacArthur; minuet, Miss Elizabeth LeCompte and Miss Winifred Tracy; Mrs. Theodore Megargee represented Miss Sarah Keen, an early belle of Bristol, and wore a replica of that period; piano solo of the olden days, Miss Hilda MacArthur.

In comparison to the above a modern dance was given by Miss Eleanor Keating; song, Miss Mary Wurster; piano solo, Miss Hilda MacArthur. Mrs. Horace H. Burton, president of the senior club, gave a brief history of the senior club. Mrs. Green, Langhorne, gave the history of the county juniors.

Mrs. Roy Tracy, who was the junior advisor for the first two years, was commended for her loyalty to the group. She was presented with a gift from the juniors. Refreshments were served, and the junior club had a birthday cake decorated with three candles.

UNITED STATES FAILS TO COLLECT ON PAYDAY

Once Again the Loser by More Than $100,000,000 On War Debts

ONLY $8,888,123 REC'D.

By Kingsbury Smith

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(INS)—Europe's pay day to the United States today found this country once again the loser by more than $100,000,000 on the amount due from the debtor nations on their Dec. 15th payments.

Only $8,888,123 was received on the $152,952,637 due. This represented approximately 5 per cent on the amount due and was more than $3,000,000 less than this government received from the debtor nations on the previous pay day, last June 15th. At that time, the United States also was the loser by more than $100,000,000 in the amount due.

When the defaults and unpaid balances of last June and December are added to the amount on which the debtors failed to make payments today, this country stands as the loser by approximately $300,000,000 on the grand total due.

Finland once again was the only nation to meet its obligation in full, paying $229,523 and making no complaint.

France, Belgium, Poland, Estonia, Hungary and Austria again defaulted, while Great Britain, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Latvia made small "token" payments to avoid the stigma of default. Discussions were still under way with Lithuania concerning an offer of $10,000 on $105,474 due.

The latest clash with the debtor nations was marked by indirect notice from Belgium that it did not intend to pay any more money to this government until Germany resumed reparations payments.

This pay day also was marked by a tendency on the part of the token-paying nations to scale down their payments to a mere drop-in-the-pucket level while at the same time evidencing a distinct "take it or leave it" attitude.

This was particularly noticeable in the case of Latvia, which owed $8,000 on $180,706 due. Acting secretary of State Phillips notified the Latvian representative that President Roosevelt considered this amount insufficient, to which Latvia quickly replied it would make no larger payment and this government finally agreed to "receive" the $8,500.

Czechoslovakia also reduced its partial payment and refused to increase it at Phillips' suggestion. It owed $150,000 on $1,649,126. Phillips suggested $180,000. The Czechs refused and the $150,000 was accepted.

In the note to Italy, which paid $1,000,000 on $2,143,309, the largest percentage payment received from any of the debtors, Phillips reiterated that acceptance of these token payments did not mean this government was conceding any reduction or revision of existing debt-payment schedules. However, he added that in view of the $1,000,000 payment, President Roosevelt did not consider Italy in default.

NEWSPAPER ROUTE BOY, CARRYING ON MINIATURE BUSINESS, MEASURED IN PENNIES, DURING SPARE TIME, SYMBOLIZES FINE INDEPENDENT ENTERPRISE

Business, Collectively, Yields Lads Over $100,000,000 Per Year

FROM PENNY PROFITS

Enterprise Likewise Represents Incalculable Social Value

Article 3

Of all the mass of information about the newspaper business brought out during three months of work on the Daily Newspaper Code, perhaps the most interesting was that regarding the half million and more boys who form an essential link between the daily press and the reading public.

The newspaper route boy or vendor, carrying on a miniature business, measured in pennies, in his spare time before or after school, has come to symbolize independent enterprise on the smallest scale. The code hearings developed the fact that the business of these small merchants, taken collectively, yields them more than $100,000,000 a year.

Such an enormous total in penny profits furnishes a measure of the social and economic importance of this part-time work to the boyhood of America. Aside from its significance in widely distributed purchasing power, that $100,000,000 earned by school-boys represents an incalculable social value in thrift, enterprise, self-reliance and fundamental training for business and citizenship.

It was shown at the hearings that there are some 588,000 boys engaged in selling or delivering newspapers. Of these, 414,503, or 70 per cent, of the total, are route boys or carriers, that is, boys who deliver newspapers to a regular list of subscribers. These boys average 58 minutes per day at their task and earn $1,206,250.95 per week, or an average of $2.91 weekly. There are 173,784 boys engaged in making individual sales of newspapers to the public. On the average these boys work two hours and 14 minutes per day and average $4.28 per week, or a total of $744,401.48 weekly. These figures do not represent the entire earnings of the boys, since many of them earn extra money by procuring new subscribers.

Except for street sales of newspapers in the business districts of the larger cities, which have now largely passed into the hands of adult news-dealers with established stands, and newspapers sent through the mails to rural subscribers, these boys largely control the distribution of daily newspapers in this country.

The primary function of the newspaper boy, as the foregoing figures indicate, is the delivery of newspapers to subscribers in the residential districts. In most cases the boys engaged in this work are small-scale business men on their own account, buying their papers at wholesale and selling them at retail. As a salesman, the boy solicits subscriptions from the families on his route. As a credit man, he determines whether or not the new subscriber is worthy of credit until the end of the week. As his own delivery man he sees to it that his subscribers get good service. Finally, as a collector, he collects the small amounts due from each subscriber.

To Hold Examination For Croydon Postmaster

There is to be an examination for the postmastership at Croydon, on December 29, according to an announcement made today.

The examination will be held in the Bristol post office building. The announcement reads:

At the request of the Postmaster General, the United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination to fill the position of postmaster at Croydon, Bucks County, at which a vacancy exists or is about to occur. It is expected that appointments will be made as a result of this examination unless it is found in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by transfer or promotion. This is not an examination under the Civil Service Act and rules, but is held under an Executive order of July 12, 1933, providing for such procedure.

The date for assembling of competitors will be stated on the admission cards sent applicants after the date for the close of receipt of applications and will be about fifteen days after that date.

Important—Veteran preference will not be granted unless documentary proof is submitted. Applications must be properly executed and filed at Washington, D. C., prior to the hour of closing business on the date specified above.

Applications—Form 10 and Form 2223, containing full information as to the requirements to be met and the character of the examination to be given may be obtained from Croydon post office or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. Applications must be properly executed, showing the examination point at which the applicant desires to be examined, and must be filed with the Commission at Washington prior to the close of business on the date specified at the head of the announcement.

GOLD POLICY TO STAND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15—There is to be no retreat, for the present, at least, in the administration's gold policy under which the American dollar has been pushed down to about 62c in terms of foreign currencies.

Instead, the policy is to be advanced. Congressional leaders said today they had been advised upon what they described as high authority, that the administration plans to further devalue the dollar before calling a halt in its program. This will be accomplished by increasing the bid price or gold above the $34.01 figure that has remained stable for two weeks. When the advance is to be resumed and to what ultimate goal, was not disclosed, but it was emphatically stated there is to be no dollar stabilization for the time being, reports in London and New York to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The reasons for maintaining the gold price at $34.01 for the past 12 consecutive business days were said to be (1) the facilitation of the Treasury's $359,000,000 refinancing operations during the first half of December; and (2) to afford Professor George F. Warren and other advisors an opportunity to study the situation.

Refinancing has now been accomplished, although the Treasury was forced to sharply increase the interest rate to 2 1/2 per cent as compared to 3/4 of one per cent a year ago. The whole program, past and future, was given a thorough going over at the White House last night by President Roosevelt and Treasury and Federal Reserve officials. It was after this conference that the announcement was made of no change in the policy.

TO EXTEND BRISTOL WATER MAINS INTO TOWNSHIP SUPPLYING CROYDON AREA, W. BRISTOL, EDGELY, HEADLEY MANOR

Project To Be Started Monday When Six Gangs of Workmen Will Get Under Way—All Labor To Be Supplied and Assigned by Unemployment Bureau—30-Hour Week To Be Effective On the Job

BRISTOL WATER SUPPLY WILL THEN BE AVAILABLE TO LARGE AREA FOR DOMESTIC, INDUSTRIAL AND FIRE PURPOSES — WILL BE A BOON TO THE ENTIRE SECTION

Legislation was enacted by Bristol Borough Council and the supervisors of Bristol Township, yesterday, whereby the water mains of Bristol will be extended into Bristol Township and thus make available to the residents of the Township the water supply of Bristol Borough, for both domestic and industrial purposes, as well as fire protection.

Bristol Township Supervisors met yesterday afternoon and passed the authorization for the district to enter into an agreement with Bristol for the water supply and also increased the indebtedness of the Township in the sum of $80,000.

Bristol Borough Council met last night and passed an ordinance authorizing the making of and entering into a contract or agreement between the Borough and the Township for the furnishing by Bristol, through its water works system, to the Township, a supply of water through water lines now about to be laid by the Township.

Borough Council met in special session for the purpose of executing the agreement, and the call of the meeting was read by President Wagner.

The ordinance was read after presentation by C. W. Winter of the ordinance committee. Upon Mr. Winter's motion the rules of council were suspended and the ordinance was placed upon second reading and final passage. The agreement between the Township and the Borough was also read, approved, and the proper officers authorized to execute the same.

Bristol Township supervisors were present, and after the adjournment of council they met with the officials of Bristol Borough and under the direction of Borough Solicitor Howard I. James, signed the necessary papers, so that work can start just as quickly as possible.

The work is to be done as part of the Civil Works Administration program in Bucks County.

Bucks County Civil Works Administrator John S. Roberts, Jr., stated that actual work would start Monday. Over 500 men, now unemployed, will be put on the job. Notices are being mailed today for them to report, and the workmen will be organized today and Saturday.

HOW MAIN EXTENSIONS WILL BE FINANCED BY BOROUGH AND TWP.

The method of financing the water main and service from Bristol into the Bristol Township area under the Federal Civil Works Administration plan required considerable time, thought and discussion by all parties concerned. Numerous conferences were held between committee chairmen of Bristol Borough Council, and those in authority in Bristol Township. As the result of these conferences representatives were sent to Harrisburg to confer with those in charge of the Civil Works program in Pennsylvania, and following the approval of the application for the project by Bucks County Administrator John S. Roberts, Jr., many details had to be worked out.

The project, it has been estimated, will cost approximately $200,000 for labor and materials. Of this sum the state will provide out of its allotment from the Federal Government for Civil Works approximately $74,000 for labor, and $20,000 for material. Bristol Township will spend $30,000 of the $200,000 total for material while Bristol Borough will appropriate about $17,500 for material. Joseph R. Grundy has contributed $5000 to the project.

Mr. Grundy made his contribution so that the work could get started and the benefit received at once from the impetus which the spending of this amount of money on a project of such a character as this, will give local businesses.

Bristol Township will issue bonds for the improvement in the amount of $80,000. The carrying charges on this bond issue will be levied against the taxpayers in the district but Bristol Borough has agreed to reimburse the Township for all such charges. Thus there will be no expense to Bristol Township in connection with the bond issue.

After the authorities had held several conferences with the State Civil Works Administration and after the latter had made the maximum appropriation for the project, and this had been added to the maximum amount which Bristol Borough and Bristol Township had available for the work, it was found that $5,000 was still lacking, so Mr. Grundy volunteered to contribute this sum, and thereby clinch the deal which is agreed will be a great boon to the entire section.

EXTENSION OF MAINS WILL PROVIDE WORK FOR OVER 500 MEN

With the approval of the Civil Works Administration and Bristol Borough Council, the Borough of Bristol is ready to start immediately extending the water mains of the Bristol Water Department into Bristol Township, touching the Croydon area and surrounding sections and Edgely, Headley Manor and some adjacent territory.

It is planned to put approximately 550 men to work on a six-hour-day and five days a week schedule. The project will be completed by February 15, 1934, and it is estimated that 155,000 man-hours will be required for the project.

The approval of the State Civil Works Administrator was received Saturday.

The territory to be served by the extension of the water system will be embraced in the areas commonly known as West Bristol, Laing's Gardens, Maple Shade, Croydon Manor, Croydon, Headley Manor and Edgely. In the Croydon section the mains will extend as far as College Park and into the section where the Croydon Square Club is located.

There will be 23 miles of cast iron pipe laid, varying in size from four to 16 inches. The 16-inch main will start at the municipal water tank, Pond and Mulberry streets, Bristol. This main will extend along the Highway, across Mill street, under the canal and the P. R. R. siding, south of Mill street, down to the roads intersection at the entrance to the Bristol Cemetery.

At the intersection of the roads at the entrance to the Bristol cemetery the 16-inch main will be reduced to a 10-inch main which will extend down the Newport Road to Prospect street in Maple Shade. Here a further reduction will be made in the size of the main which beginning at this point will be an eight-inch pipe. The eight-inch pipe will continue over Prospect street to the Neshaminy Creek Road and thence along the Neshaminy Creek Road to P. R. R. station at Croydon. A 10-inch main will be laid from here beneath the underpass of the P. R. R. at Croydon station through Cedar Avenue to State Road, along the State Road to the Bristol Pike at the intersection of the approach of the Burlington-Bristol Bridge, where it will be connected with the 16-inch main leading from Bristol. Lateral mains will be laid from the supply main into the various streets and developments. These lateral mains will be four, six and eight inches in diameter.

SEX ANTAGONISMS

For weeks after every wedding the marriage of two popular young people is a topic of conversation among those who know them.

When the subject comes up to discussion in the homes of other married people the wife will say: "She is a sweet girl, I hope he will be good to her." And the husband will reply (mentally): "The boy is a decent chap. It will be a pity if she leads him a dog's life."

The woman for the woman, the man for the man! It is human nature. Sex antagonism is more firmly fixed than any other prejudice that troubles the race.

If, after the passage of years the young couple should quarrel and separate the women will blame the husband and the men will take it for granted that the "poor fellow" must have been mistreated beyond endurance. And even though a husband or wife wrongs the other those of like sex will discover ample provocation for the act.

Paraphrasing that misguided patriot, Decatur, but without sacrilegious intent: "Our sex! May she always be in the right; but our sex, right or wrong."

STRIKES ARE COSTLY

The National Manufacturers' association, in an analysis of the industrial situation covering the last four months, finds that during that time there were more than 1,000 strikes. These walkouts occurred in many lines of industry and were due to various causes.

Of chief importance was their cost to the workers themselves. In working days lost, the cost was 7,000,000. This represented a cash loss of approximately $24,000,000. In other words, American workers during the four months period covered received in pay $24,000,000 less than they would have received had there been no strikes.

When it is remembered that this occurred at a time when millions of men were on charity lists because of their inability to find jobs, the fact takes on startling importance.

It may be that some of the strike were justified, notwithstanding the wide prevalence of unemployment. It is difficult to believe, though, that all of them were, or that the grievances represented in those that may have had the color of justification could not have been settled by less radical means. No strike is justified until every effort has been made to effect a settlement by more peaceful means. It is not the strikers alone who suffer, but the community and industry generally.

Revolutionary changes have taken place in the management of American industry, but apparently little headway has been made toward ending industrial warfare which is continuing to exact a heavy toll. Not until means of preventing such strife are found and placed in operation will one of the important needs of the industrial world have been met.

There are consolations. The bellhop now thinks a dime a tip instead of an insult.

"KNAVE'S GIRL" By JOAN CLAYTON

COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Pretty, young Patricia Warren unwillingly accepts the attentions of Bill McGee, a racketeer, fearing his wrath should she refuse. One night, Bill is shot by a rival gangster while with Patricia. Patricia runs home in terror. Her stepmother, fearing a scandal, puts her out. Patricia is forced to make her living by playing professional bridge. Impressed by the girl's beauty and skill, Julian Haverholt, the bridge expert, makes her his partner. She moves to his palatial home where he introduces her as his niece. Pat is indignant until Haverholt explains he was thinking of her reputation. Patricia is secretly in love with Clark Tracy, the polo player, but Clark is engaged to Marthe March, society girl. Pat first met Clark and his fiancée when she filled in at bridge (for fifty cents an hour) at wealthy Mrs. Sycott's home. Pat was living with her stepmother at the time. Meeting Pat again at Haverholt's, Clark does not recognize her. He breaks an appointment to teach Pat to drive her new car and goes on a trip with his fiancée's family. Noting her disappointment, Haverholt questions Pat, but she denies that she loves Clark. Pat concentrates on bridge to forget. Then comes the bridge tournament sponsored by Keaton Blair. Haverholt's bitter enemy, Clark is present. He is distressed by Patricia's coolness towards him. The contest is on. Haverholt and Pat play with machine-like precision and perfection, and win. Next morning, they are deluged with congratulatory telegrams and business offers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"What are we going to do about these?" she asked, glancing at the telegrams.

"Waste baskets were invented for such stuff," replied Julian so promptly that the girl was disconcerted. In her mind she had been planning dignified little acknowledgments. "Just ignore the whole of it," he went on. "There was only one decent offer in the lot."

"I guess I didn't see that one." "I separated it from the junk. Here it is," said Julian, rescuing the proper envelope and tapping it against his palm. "It's from Jarrett's, the big department store. They're planning a tournament for their customers. They want you to run it."

"Me!" "Yes, you," he smiled. "I think you'd better accept. Six Friday afternoons, though you can probably duck out on a couple of them. They'll pay you for your trouble."

"How much?" demanded Patricia, expecting some vast sum.

"Twenty-five dollars an afternoon," Haverholt told her. "That means a hundred and fifty for the series. They'll give you tons of swell publicity, paid ads in all the newspapers, circulars mailed out to their customers, they'll give you an elegant send-off on your dizzy flight to fame."

"Then you think I had better accept?" "I most certainly do."

"All right," said the girl obediently. "I will."

She bent her bright head over the remainder of the messages. She hardly admitted to herself that she was searching for some word from Clark. Apparently everyone in the world had sent congratulations, everyone except Clark. At the end of five minutes, Patricia folded the last sheet of yellow paper, thrust it into its envelope, looked up and said:

"Is this all?"

"Were you looking for something special, my dear?" The man was watching her closely.

"Why no," she informed him coolly. "I was just wondering."

"Maybe this is what you want," said Haverholt with equal coolness. Reaching into the pocket of his dressing gown he pulled out a crumpled sheet of paper, handed it over. It was a telegram addressed to both of them.

"Maybe this is what you want," said Haverholt, with equal coolness.

Patricia spread the paper flat, read:

"Congratulations to two great bridge players. Hoping to see you both next week at Belmont, Clark."

The girl raised her eyes. "Why didn't you show this to me?" she asked levelly.

"I did show it to you." "Not until I asked."

"Perhaps," he shrugged, "I wanted to hear you ask."

"Why?" Learning his elbows upon the table, the man suddenly became intent and serious. There was now a certain inflexible quality about him, troubling and disturbing.

"If I were you, Patricia," he said deliberately, "I would put Clark Tracy out of my mind this minute."

The girl went scarlet. "He isn't in my mind," she said quickly, defensively.

"You'll never in this world pull it off," he told her, ignoring the protest. "Clark Tracy is not for you and the sooner you acknowledge it the better. It's not because of Marthe either," he remarked and continued decisively, "You're pretty enough and clever enough to dispose of Marthe's claims in short order. After you'd laid your groundwork and got your campaign under way, Clark probably wouldn't remember there was a Marthe March. Don't bother getting high-minded," he said sharply, as Patricia, horrified, attempted to interrupt. "I've never yet met a woman who wasn't utterly unscrupulous where the prior rights of other women were concerned. I don't blame you for it. It's your nature, child."

The girl was furious. "You don't know as much about women as you think you do," she said seething with anger.

"I've had years of experience, darling. Ah, those were the years!" "Stop it, stop this minute," she stormed at him. "You may know women but you don't know me. I like Clark Tracy. Well, what if I do? I've met his fiancée; I like her too. I suppose I have a right to like them if I want to. You—you're trying to make something out of nothing. I'm sure I can't guess why you take the trouble."

Pushing back the telegrams she rose from the table and stalked toward the door, half expecting that Haverholt would call. He maintained a baffling silence. She hesitated at the threshold. Still he said:

nothing. She could not resist a backward glance. The man was smoking, staring meditatively at the ceiling.

"Can you give me one single reason why I shouldn't like Clark Tracy?" Patricia flung over a haughty shoulder.

"I can give you one very good reason," said Haverholt slowly. Unwillingly she turned. He looked straight into her eyes. "Has it ever occurred to you what Clark would think if he discovered that you were not my niece?"

Patricia walked to the breakfast table and sat down. She joined her hands beneath a strained white face.

"You aren't going to tell him, are you?" she whispered.

There was a silence in the precisely ordered breakfast room. Patricia sat strained and motionless. Julian Haverholt ground out his cigarette.

"I don't need to tell Clark anything," he said sharply. "If you persist in falling in love with him you will tell him the truth yourself. And he won't like the truth!"

Patricia faced him bravely. "The truth is not so terrible," she said. "I have done nothing wrong. I'm not afraid."

"Save your defence for Clark," suggested Haverholt, not ungently. "Whatever you say I will say: your story will be mine. But I very much doubt that you can successfully gild the facts." He hesitated, added, "Clark Tracy simply is not constituted to understand or to sympathize with the peculiar psychology of the adventuress."

"Are you inferring that I am an adventuress?"

"I am merely trying to force you to see your situation from Clark's standpoint. That young man isn't living in the present century where the question of women is concerned."

"I suppose you are," put in Patricia bitterly.

"I am. If I loved a woman I wouldn't give a damn for her past or for her future. I would be too busy with her present. Clark is different. After all," he reminded her, "I have known the subject of our discussion longer than you have."

The girl could not confute him. She listened, every fibre of her being in silent protest, as Julian continued his light, mocking dissection of the other man.

Open Classes Here For The Unemployed

Classes are requested to meet with the instructors on Monday at 1.30 p. m., in St. James Parish House, Wood and Walnut streets. Courses will then be selected as requested by the applicants. Courses already suggested are current events, cooking, sewing, games, dancing, English, mathematics, spelling, general science, penmanship, first-aid, home nursing and child care.

The schools are to be operated until February 15, 1934. Continuance of the plan will then be decided upon the results obtained.

The schools will be financed out of Federal Emergency Relief funds allotted to the State Emergency Relief Board for the purpose of paying wages to needy unemployed persons competent to teach adults to read and write.

All students must be over 16 years of age and unemployed.

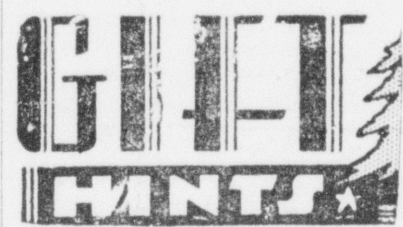

The general purpose of "relief work" in education is to provide constructive employment for unemployed persons on relief and competent to teach, and at the same time provide socially constructive activities to numerous other persons.

name will be on his accepted application blank, filed according to number in the Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg. It will not be consulted until grades are recorded at the four university scoring centers, many miles removed from the names, and after the Department is ready to offer positions to the highest ranking candidates as shown by their examination grades.

Through his number the examinee will find the room to which he is assigned for Saturday's tests. He will get examination papers marked with his number, be finger-printed by number, and his paper will be graded with only the number for identification.

Here are some of the supply facts:

1,991,000 printed papers, cards and slips, including 155,000 application blanks and 150,000 circulars describing the various positions to be filled, and more than a million forms to be used in connection with Saturday's examinations.

Half a million printed envelopes for mailing purposes.

Two thousand blue and red pencils for scoring examination papers.

The task for the examiners will be in proportion. For example:

In single file, the candidates to be admitted to examinations, would make a column, extending eighteen miles. It would take them four and a half hours to file into a high school building, marching briskly.

They will be housed in more than 1400 rooms in 49 high school buildings in 36 cities.

It will require approximately 2500 public school teachers and administrators to give the examinations, including several hundred information clerks, guards and guides.

Almost 1000 scorers, checkers, and key-punch operators and others will grade papers in continuous eight-hour shifts beginning Saturday afternoon in the four state-aided colleges and universities.

Newspaper Route Boy Symbolizes Enterprise settles his account with the circulation manager and pockets his profit for the week.

In the process he has learned from experience a good deal about human nature—such things as the importance of courtesy, promptness, neatness, self confidence and a pleasant address in meeting and dealing with people. He has gained, in practice and from observation, some useful knowledge about several essential principles of business. He has learned, in addition, some things that will help to make him a better citizen—the value of a dollar in terms of honest effort, the importance of paying bills on time, and the satisfaction of earning his own money and depending on himself.

A witness repeatedly called during the code hearings was Howard W. Stodghill, chairman of the Newspaper Boy Welfare Committee of the International Circulation Manager's Association, who has long been active in promoting closer co-operation between newspapers and school authorities. Mr. Stodghill told the Administrator that he considered himself a representative of the boys, rather than the publishers. He advocated a code provision designed to protect the boys against abuses, such as working during school hours, or in cases where such work would be injurious to their health. He was insistent, however, that it would be a gross injustice to the boys, and contrary to their best interests, to ban their part-time work on the theory that it constituted child labor.

By no stretch of the imagination, Mr. Stodghill said, could the job of delivering newspapers after school be compared to child labor in a mill or factory. He submitted in evidence numerous statements from newspaper boys, as a group, made higher grades and had better attendance records than the average.

Further, he pointed out that thousands of ambitious boys, who would otherwise be compelled to drop out of school in the lower grades, are enabled by this part-time work to finish high school. Finally, Mr. Stodghill said, many of the newspaper boys are able, while remaining in school, to contribute substantially to the support of their families. To take away their jobs, he said, would throw a greater burden on relief agencies in practically every city in the country.

General Johnson, in accepting the newspaper code, pending hearing, furnished one of the human interest highlights that brightened the crowded days of labor on the codes. He revealed that he, himself, like several of the newspaper publishers and others representing their industries at the code hearings, had obtained his first business experience as a newspaper boy.

EXTENSION OF MAINS WILL PROVIDE WORK FOR OVER 500 MEN

Edgely section now extends as far as Edgely avenue and Radcliffe street. This eight-inch main will be extended as far as the property line of the Paterson Parchment Paper Company and an extension will be carried over Edgely avenue under the main line of the P. R. R. to Headley Manor.

There will be approximately 166 fire hydrants distributed throughout Bristol Township for which the Township will reimburse the borough, and these hydrants will be equipped with the Bristol type of fire connections. The hydrants will have a pressure of 65 pounds to the square inch.

In the area into which the water service is to be extended there are approximately 1200 properties which will receive a greatly augmented fire protection by reason of the large number of fire hydrants with the high pressure of the Bristol water service. These properties will also have available an adequate water supply which means better living conditions and possibly reduced fire insurance rates. There is also likely to be an increase in property values as an adequate water supply such as is furnished by the Bristol Water Department is considered a great asset in any community and is an incentive for home builders and industrialists to select sites where such a service is available. The service will be rendered in the same manner and at the same rates as prevail in Bristol.

The entire project will cost approximately $207,000 for both labor and materials.

Workmen for the project will be selected from the relief lists and the registered unemployed and assigned to the work by the National Reemployment Service of which Charles Kratz, Doylestown, is manager.

Preparations have been in progress for several days with the result that just as soon as the final word is given Borough Engineer John S. Roberts, Jr., is prepared to start digging dirt. The Borough has already purchased tools and equipment among which are 600 picks and shovels. Every effort has been made by the Bristol authorities to derive as much local benefit as possible from this project. All of the picks and shovels that could be purchased in Bristol were bought of local dealers with the result that every dealer carrying this line here has had his stock completely exhausted. The balance was purchased in Trenton and from supply houses in Philadelphia. The pipe is to be bought from foundries in this immediate section and in which some local people have been employed. A carload of leadite for caulking joints is already on the scene as is also a supply of

AUXILIARY WOMEN OF BRISTOL ATTEND THE COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. George Croner Presides at Session in Jenkintown

Six Bristol women were in attendance yesterday at the monthly luncheon and meeting of the Montgomery-Bucks Council of American Legion Auxiliaries, held in the Legion Post home at Jenkintown. The localites attending were: Mrs. George Croner, president of the council, who had charge of the meeting; Miss Bessie Rafferty, Mrs. Harry Wessaw, Mrs. Robert Clark, Sr., Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. E. Delker.

There were approximately 100 women present. A chairman was appointed for the past president's party which is being instituted. This group will include past presidents of the council as well as those who have served in that capacity for the units. Mrs. Brown, Jenkintown, was the appointee, and she will hold this office until election in June.

Reports on Christmas work of the council were heard. Stockings filled with gifts have been sent to the invalid ex-service men at the Cotesville Hospital; and gifts have been procured by the units for many children. The January session will take place at Willow Grove.

RECIPES

Rice and Tomatoes

2½ cups boiled rice.
3 tablespoons bacon fat.
3 tablespoons chopped onions.
3 tablespoons chopped celery.
2 cups tomatoes.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
Heat fat in frying pan and add brown onions and celery. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Fruit Cookies

2-3 cup fat.
1½ cups sugar.
1 egg.
4 tablespoons molasses.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
1 teaspoon cloves.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
2 tablespoons milk.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup currants.
½ cup raisins.
¾ cups flour.
1 teaspoon soda.
Cream the fat and sugar. Add egg and molasses. Add rest of ingredients and chill dough. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Potatoes Au Gratin

3 cups diced potatoes.
4 tablespoons butter.

4 tablespoons butter.
2 cups milk.
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
¼ teaspoon celery salt.
3 tablespoons cream.
1 egg yolk.
2 tablespoons milk.
Mix potatoes, butter, salt, paprika, celery salt and cream. Beat well. Drop tablespoonful onto greased baking sheet. Smooth edges with spoon. Make indentation in tops with back of spoon. Spread tops and sides of each case with yolk which has been mixed with the milk. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. Arrange on serving plates and fill with buttered peas.

Meat Relish

½ cup chopped meat.
1 hard cooked egg diced.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
¼ teaspoon salt.
¼ cup chopped celery.
2 tablespoons pickle relish.
4 tablespoons salad dressing.
Mix ingredients and spread on buttered slices of thinly cut white bread. Add bits of shredded lettuce. Cover with other buttered slices of bread. Ham, veal, beef or lamb can be used.

MEAT GIVEN FOR BIRTHDAY DINNER

Pineapple juice cocktail, chicken and hot biscuits, cranberry jelly, mashed potatoes, orange and grape fruit salad, sour cream chocolate cake and coffee is the menu suggested for the birthday dinner for the boy of the family.

Don't forget to ice the cake with chocolate icing. This is essential.

The recipe for the cake follows:

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake—Three eggs, one and one-half cups sour cream, two squares chocolate, one-half cup hot water (scant), one and one-half cups sugar, two and one-half cups pastry flour (sifted before measuring), two teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths teaspoon soda, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat eggs until light. Add cream and beat again slightly. Just until mixed; add dry ingredients, including sugar, sifted together two or three times, and beaten hard; then add chocolate, melted with hot water, and stirred until perfectly smooth. Bake in a large, well-greased, floured pan 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Frost with a chocolate frosting made by melting over hot water one and one-half squares chocolate; add to this one tablespoon butter, two of thick cream, one of milk and a pinch of salt. Stir into this mixture powdered sugar to make it stiff enough to spread (about two cups) and one teaspoon vanilla.

Egg Salad, Serving Six

4 hard cooked eggs, diced.
1 cup diced cucumbers.
½ cup diced celery.
3 tablespoons chopped pickles.
1 tablespoon chopped onions.
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers.
½ cup salad dressing.

Broiled Steak and Onions

1 sirloin steak (2 pounds)
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
1 cup sliced Bermuda onions.
2 tablespoons butter.
Fit steak into deep frying pan. Broil five minutes. Turn and cover with rest of ingredients. Broil seven minutes. Baste frequently. Carefully arrange on serving platter. Garnish with parsley.

about the New Ford V-8 for 1934

Greater power at still lower cost through new Dual Carburetion . . . Increased motoring comfort because of simplified Clear-vision Ventilation . . . Easier riding through more flexible springs, deeper seat cushions and softer cushion springs . . . Distinctive new appearance . . . Many other features

1 More Miles Per Gallon—More Power, Speed and Efficiency with Dual Carburetion—Greater Oil Economy

The performance and economy of the 1933 Ford V-8 have been the talk of thousands of motorists. Owners said: "Leave it alone, don't change it." Dealers said: "Impossible to improve it!" But we have improved it—in every direction. We started with the engine. The Ford V-8 for 1934 is more powerful, more efficient, easier to start in cold weather, yet it is the most economical Ford to operate ever built—largely because of the new Dual Carburetor and Dual Intake Manifold. Even in the coldest weather the V-8 engine warms up quickly and maintains an efficient operating temperature because of new thermostats in the waterline.

Added engine refinements—get the details about all of them from the nearest Ford dealer—reduce oil consumption and further reduce operating and maintenance costs.

2 Clear-vision Ventilation—and the Windshield Opens

There's nothing to obstruct the view in the new Ford system of Clear-vision

Put It to the Test

Ride in this New Ford V-8 for 1934 and find out—personally—what it can do. It is the one sure way to find out which car gives you the most for your money.

Ventilation. It's built-in—simplicity itself. The same handle that raises the window glass also slides it back horizontally to the ventilating position, and then the forward motion of the car draws the air out of the body. Drafts are eliminated, passenger comfort is assured, and windshield will not fog in cold weather. Another interesting feature of the Ford system—the windshield can be opened! This, and the cowl ventilator, provide the additional air needed for hot-weather comfort.

3 Greater Beauty—New Radiator Shell and Grille—Fenders in Color

A car to be proud of, the Ford V-8 for 1934 has newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, and other distinctive features. Interiors are more attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests and new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

Fenders on all De Luxe cars are in color to harmonize with body colors. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

4 Transverse Springs—Comfort with Stability and Safety

Ford transverse springs provide the utmost stability and safety. Placed crosswise, they tend to prevent the body from tilting on uneven roads, and turns can be taken safely at relatively high speeds. Free and easy action of all four wheels is permitted because the outer flexible tips of the springs are attached to the axles. Thus the most sensitive parts of the springs receive road shocks first and absorb them before they reach the body. The advantages of the solid axle are retained.
